ABOUT LABOR DAY

It Seems There is a Shortage Central Union is Investigating Now

Some of the Tickets Sold Before the Last Labor Day Not Accounted for Yet.

MAY BE WARM FOR SOME ONE.

Central Labor union, it is understood, has a hard nut to crack. It has been at work for some little time trying to find where the shortage in its last Labor day accounts comes in.

Thus far nothing definite has been done. It seems, from reports, that there are four or five hundred dollars worth of tickets to the last Labor day festivities that have never been accounted for.

The tickets were given out to each union, and then re-distributed among the members to be sold. The tickets were sold or disposed of some way, but where the money went is something not yet clear, although the Central union has had the matter under investigation for some time. It desired to wind up the last labor day accounts and begin preparations for the next one in September.

There is considerable talk about what will be done in the matter, and it is hinted that when the investigation has proceeded a little farther, it will begin to get warm for some one.

Several of the unions have failed to account for the tickets apportioned to them, either by the tickets or the money, and it will have to be done before the accounts can be closed and the new arrangements begun.

Central body last night took no definite action, but is expected that there will be developments shortly.

NOT SETTLED

The Rehkopf Concern is Still Closed Down.

The Proprietors Claim That They Have Lived up to Their Agreement.

The Rehkopf strike remains as it stood yesterday and no settlement has yet been made.

The principal cause for the action on the part of the leatherworkers lies in the failure of Mr. Rehkopf to live up to his agreement relative to the number of apprentice boys he shall hire. The union rules allow one apprentice boy to every ten journeymen and it is claimed by the union men that the proprietor has been employing more than this number. Yesterday the committee met Mr. Rehkopf but received no satisfaction and the matter remains unchanged. It required several days to settle the matter before and the union men are looking for the same condition of affairs with this walk-out. An attempt to reach an agreement will again be made today.

Mr. Rehkopf claims he has lived up to his agreement in every respect, but further than this declines to talk.

MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION.

THEY ARE TO ORGANIZE AT CHICAGO TO FIGHT UNIONS.

Chicago, Ill., June 20—It is reported today that the plans for the formation of an association of merchants for the purpose of protection against unreasonable demands of labor are nearing completion, and within another week it is expected to have every store owner of prominence in the city enlisted in the movement. The demands made upon merchants in the past, especially in the course of the recent strike of department store wagon drivers, are said to be the chief force that has caused the business men to get together for mutual protection. Organized labor threatens to retaliate with a general boycott of all the stores that may become members of the new organization.

VICTORY FOR COW

Aldermen Defeat the Ordinance to Keep the Bovines Inside.

Decided to Submit the Question to a Vote of the People in November.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE MEETING

All the aldermen were present at last night's meeting of the board, with the exception of Mr. Boone.

Mayor Yeiser reported to the board that the council had decided to pay off the judgment of Patterson against the city of Paducah in the brick street affair, and end the legal battle. The aldermen ratified this action. Also the action of Treasurer Kraus' deposit, the City National bank.

The matter of securing a clear title to the property at Ninth and Broadway for a public library, and that of the city is securing deeds to some property purchased at a tax sale were ratified by the aldermen.

Ten thousand dollars on the floating debt and $1289.11 interest, with the regular bills, were allowed.

The cow question was then brought up. The ordinance passed by the council, prohibiting the cow from running at large under any circumstances, was voted down. The herders' ordinance, providing for a tax for "herders," was passed.

The new ordinance prepared by Attorney Lightfoot was then presented. It provided that cows should not be allowed to run at large and should not be permitted on the streets except when in charge of some herder.

Captain W. O. Clark, representative in the last legislature, made a half hour's talk in favor of allowing the cow to run at large. A vote on the measure showed that Aldermen Langstaff, Noble, Leigh and Greif voted in favor of the ordinance, and Aldermen Barry, Durrett and Jones voted against it. As it required a majority of the members elected, or five, to carry, the ordinance was declared defeated.

The ordinance relative to the street railway franchises were given final passage, also the ordinance giving the Illinois Central right to run through the post house.

The board ratified the action of the council in ordering estimates on the market house improvements and that Rev. Perryman is eligible to act as a public library trustee.

The report adopted by the council relative to Milk and Meat Inspector Hoesig was ratified.

All prayers for relief from over assessment were referred to the special board of supervisors.

Several office house transfers granted by the council were ratified by the board.

The ferry privileges of Owen brothers was transferred to James Owen.

On motion of Alderman Barry, it was decided to submit the town cow question to the people, to be voted on at the November election.

The board then adjourned.

PADUCAH CREDITORS.

A HOPKINSVILLE LIQUOR DEALER
MAKES AN ASSIGNMENT.

Andrew D. Jones, a liquor dealer of Hopkinsville, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. His creditors are as follows: Henderson Brewing Co., $50.71; Thompson-Wilson Co., Paducah, $131; F. Orran Co., Louisville, $150; J. Barbee and Co., Louisville, $142.50; H. Weil and Son, Paducah, $106; Dreyfus, Wolf and Co., Paducah, $140; Charles Nelson, Nashville, $56; Feucher Bros., Cairo, $65. There are no assets.

NO SUCH SUIT FILED.

The suit reported to have been filed at Mayfield by Baumberger, Bloom and Co., the Louisville distillers, to recover land on which Hickory Grove is located, has never been filed, and no one seems to know anything about it.

GENTLE ROAST.

MUST DO AS ROMANS WHILE IN ROME, OR GET OUT.

Manila, June 20—Colonel Frank D. Baldwin, of the Twenty-seventh infantry, who is stationed on the island of Mindanao, has written a letter to the Sultan of Bacolod, in which he sets forth the intentions of the American authorities. Colonel Baldwin said, among other things, that the Americans did not intend interfering with the religion, plurality of wives or property of the Moros. The following reply has been received from the sultan by Colonel Baldwin:

"We ask you to retire to Malabang. We do not want you in the Lake Lanao district unless you will join our religion and adopt our customs. In case you do not so desire, all the dates will make war on you, because here there is but one religion, that of Stamboul."

Colonel Baldwin says that the sultans of Bacolod and Massin will have to be taken prisoners before permanent peace in Mindanao is possible.

CAME HIGH.

BUT THE DUSKY DEAD GAME
DIDN'T MIND THE COST.

A well dressed negro who looked educated a la Booker Washington entered Carraro's saloon on Green street and, placing a dollar upon the bar called for a glass of beer, says the Louisville Times.

"Beer is $2 a glass here," said the bartender as a gentle turndown of the order.

"I didn't ask the price," said the visitor as he put out another dollar.

The bartender thought it was up to him to serve the beer after this call and he proceeded to do it.

"Hold on," said the dusky patron as he gathered in his coin and pulled a roll of bills from his pocket, skinning off a $5 note, "have a beer with me."

The invitation was declined with thanks and the charge was only $2.

The barkeeper is still admiring the negro's nerve.

KILLS SISTER-IN-LAW.

JOE MOORE WENT LOOKING FOR TROUBLE.

Mt. Vernon, Ky., June 20—Joe Moore last night, at Mullin's Station, this county, fatally shot his sister-in-law, Mrs. Elihu Jewell, who died early this morning. Moore's wife, who had left him, was living with the Jewell family. Moore and his brother had gone to the Jewell residence, armed, as if they expected trouble. Mrs. Moore refused to return with her husband. It is not plain how the shooting was done, as only some small children were witnesses besides Moore and his brother.

The slayer fled and was fired at by the dead woman's husband, but at too long a range. Moore sent several shots back at Jewell. Henry Moore was brought here and put in jail. Joe is at large.

CHANGE IN DATE.

IN THE ANNUAL SESSION OF THE GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATION.

Frankfort, Ky., June 20—Agricultural Commissioner Nail, who is president of the State Good Roads Association, called to meet in annual session on August 12 and 13 at Lexington, today made a change in the date, calling off the August meeting and fixing October 21 and 22. President Nail takes this action on the suggestion of Secretary J. C. Van Pelt and other of the association who could not attend a meeting in August.

ADDITION TO THE RANKS.

The town cows are multiplying fast. Are they rejoicing over a hard fought victorious battle? Yesterday afternoon the fine Jersey heifer of Mr. A. Bundeman, No. 11 Huntington Row, presented her owner with a lively pair of calves, male and female. If they should escape the cruel knife of the butcher they promise to become very creditable members of the bovine club.

AMERICAN DERBY.

TOMORROW HORSEMEN FROM
ALL OVER THE COUNTRY WILL BE HERE.

Chicago, June 20—The American derby, the classic event of the Washington Park Jockey club's summer meeting, will be run off tomorrow and horsemen throughout the country are intensely interested in the outcome. The field which will go to the post is not only larger than the ordinary derby fields, but it is made up of class that cannot be beaten anywhere. All of the candidates were on the track for practice today and were watched by throngs of railbirds anxious to get a line on the probable winner of the $20,000 purse. From present indications Heno will go to the post a favorite at about 5 to 1, with Cruzados as second choice.

HANGED FOR MURDER.

Brandon, Man., June 20—The execution of Walter Gordon took place this morning. Gordon's crime was the murder of two men named Daw and Smith at Whitewater in 1900. The crime resulted from a dispute over a farm which Gordon was negotiating to buy from Daw.

PARDON REFUSED.

JOHN COTTRELL MUST REMAIN HIS TERM AT EDDYVILLE.

Governor Beckham has refused to pardon John Cottrell, who has been in the penitentiary from near Pryorsburg, Graves county, for eleven years, for killing a negro. OIL IN MARSHALL Excitement Over Alleged Discovery of J. T. Ozment.

A Stock Company Being Formed to Sink a Well and Get a Gusher.

Benton, Ky., June 20.—A stock company is being formed here to sink an oil well in Marshall county.

There has been some excitement over the discovery of what purports to be an oil well. J. T. Ozment, ex-jailer of the county, owns a piece of land about two miles east of Benton, on the Benton and Birmingham road, just on the east side of Clark's river. For some time, early last spring in passing a certain part of his farm he could smell oil, but supposed it had been spilled by some one in passing along the road nearby. Later on he found the place where oil and water came out of the ground, which he put into a bottle and showed it to a few of his best friends. An investigation was at once begun and it was found to contain much oil and came out of the ground where it had leaked through a place underneath which is supposed to be oil.

WILL BE ENFORCED.

MAYOR YEISER TO BE ASKED TO DO HIS DUTY BY OLD ORDINANCE.

Councilman Joe Fowler, who did good work in behalf of a progressive and beautiful city in the cow ordinance fight, stated this morning that the present stock ordinance is still in force, and that he will ask the mayor to see that it is enforced.

It requires cows to be kept up from 6 p. m. until 6 a. m., and if the law were enforced would prevent much of the damage to yards and flowers.

MASONIC BANQUET

A Large Crowd at Mayfield Last Evening.

500 Masons Gather Around the Board and Enjoy Themselves.

The Masons' excursion special to Mayfield last night was well attended and about 150 persons went down.

Dean's band was taken along and besides several concerts given on the streets here and at the train a very nice program was rendered in Mayfield on the street corners. The Masons repaired to the Woolen Mills building where they went through the degree work and then the big banquet was spread. There were covers for 600 and so large was the crowd that all could not be seated and several had to wait. There were about 500 Masons in attendance and the remainder of the guests were outsiders who had received special invitations to attend the banquet. The speeches made were very witty and the banquet was finished about 12:30. The train left Mayfield at 1:15 and made the run into Paducah in 25 minutes, regular cannon ball time. The local Masons are well pleased with the reception and entertainment given them and will always remember the Mayfield order for its hospitality. The banquet was the largest ever spread in West Kentucky.

FAVOR TO BUTE

King Edward Shows a Preference for Young Marquis.

He Will Probably Sit with His Elders, Instead of Those of His Class.

London, June 20.—A pleasing impression has been created by the report that the king has intimated his wish to have the young Marquis of Bute attend the coronation, despite the fact that the latter according to strict rule and precedent, would not be entitled to admission to the Abbey with his fellow peers. Lord Bute came of age today, but as he will not take his seat in the house of lords before the coronation ceremony he would not be allotted the seat proper to his rank at the great function next week, if there was a strict adherence to official etiquette.

It now seems probable, however, that the question of form will be waived and the young marquis will be found seated among his elders instead of on the special bench provided for peers and peeresses in their own right who are minors.

If King Edward makes an exception in this case it will not be the first time he has showed special favor toward the young marquis. A year ago when the Marquis of Bute was received in audience by the king for the purpose of returning to the sovereign his dead father's insignia of the Order of the Thistle, the king was exceptionally cordial and gracious to the young peer, and by his conduct he gave all to understand that the ill will and almost downright animosity towards the court manifested by the late Lord Bute during the late reign in connection with the treatment to which his aunt, the unfortunate Lady Flora Hastings, had been subjected while a member of the royal household some sixty years ago had become a thing of the past.

A DAILY THOUGHT.
"Be sympathetic if you wish to be regretted."

THE WEATHER.
The temperature yesterday went to 88, and last night a shower fell, but the rainfall was light. The indications are for cooler weather with showers.

COW ORDINANCE DEFEATED.

The citizens of Paducah today received the humiliating information that the board of aldermen, their "house of lords," had decided that cows can run at large in the city. It was a victory for the unprogressive, hayseed element that has for years dominated local politics with the exception of two years when the business men's council was in office. It shows the people of other cities that Paducah's board of aldermen wants to convert the city into a farmyard for the benefit of a few cow owners who pay no taxes on their cows and feed them free of charge.

There is absolutely no excuse for the defeat of the stock ordinance last night, unless it be the lack of enterprise and progress in the board of aldermen. At first, it is reported, the board was unanimous in favor of the ordinance. Later it was four to four, and still later five to three. One of the aldermen who last night voted against the ordinance is known to have been for it a week ago.

The men who have fought for the defeat of the ordinance are men who doubtless meant well, and were sincere in their motives, but they were not progressive men. They were selfish, short-sighted men who are willing to sacrifice the beauty and comfort of the city, and the rights of their neighbors, for the sake of a few cow owners. They pleaded the "poor widow" and the "hard working laboring man" act. They wanted the city to remain a public pasture for the benefit of a few. They misrepresented the facts, and led people to think that a majority of the people of Paducah own cows and are not able to feed them, and have to let them run at large or starve. And they have succeeded in pulling the wool over the eyes of a few, among whom is the intelligent, enterprising board of aldermen!

It is a fact not generally known that is the entire city of Paducah only four men are assessed as owning cows. Three of these are dairymen who live inside the corporate limits, and the other is one of the gentlemen who has been making a public fight against the ordinance. Where are the rest of these "poor widows," and others who are supposed to be of such numbers and importance that the board of aldermen feels constrained to accord them permission to turn their cows loose in the streets? The fact is that there are doubtless many more cows than this owner in Paducah, which were not given in by these good progressive citizens who own them and are now posing as such enterprising people. But it is likewise true that the cow contingent, as compared with the thousands of progressive, fair-minded people in Paducah, is decidedly small, and that the board of aldermen should have legislated for the greatest good to the greatest number, and not for the greatest good to the people who own cows, and are very much in the minority.

The cow ordinance, it may be said in conclusion, was not intended to nor would it have, deprived any man of his cow. It was designed only to require him to keep it in his yard, where he keeps his children. It was not an effort to trample on the rights of anyone, for no citizen has a right to trample on the rights of others, and it is trampling on the rights of others when he turns his cow loose to damage and disgrace both public and private property, wherever she may go. It was not a question of whether or not the cow is a detriment to any class or classes. Cows are doubtless an advantage to those who own them, especially when they dodge paying taxes on them and feed them at the expense of some one else. The cow may be an important factor in civilization, and all that, but that gives her no right to stalk about in freedom in a second class city, even if we have got a fourth class administration. It would make no difference if the grocery bills of the cow owners were cut in half by allowing cows to be turned out to feast on flowers and shrubs. The owners of the cows are so few in number, as compared with the vast majority of residents of Paducah, that the board of aldermen is not expected to legislate in behalf of their grocery bills. The aldermen are there to legislate for the benefit of the majority, and it has utterly failed to do it.

The Sun has fought in favor of the cow ordinance because it believed and yet believes such an ordinance is needed in Paducah for the comfort and welfare of the majority. Such laws are in force in other places, many of them less pretentious than Paducah. The Sun has advocated the cow law not to deprive any one of his cow, as some of the narrow-minded seem to think, but simply to help make our city beautiful and healthful by keeping up the cows. No better evidence of the calibre of the present administration could be obtained than its attitude on the cow question. Some of the councilmen and aldermen voted in favor of it. It is only the others who are meant, but as they are sufficient in numbers to carry their point, the administration will have to shoulder the blame.

Legislator Clark, as a cow champion, made a better record than he did as a member of the general assembly. We notice that his remarks before the board of aldermen were "able and intensioned." Just what that means is not clear, but we trust that the "intentioned" part is what defeated the ordinance.

A man has to pay taxes on his watch, his dog, his gun and his diamond, but if he has a cow that saves him money every day and brings in a small income from the milk and butter besides, after feeding in some one's front yard, he doesn't have to pay any tax on her.

It is generally believed that the pope will today formally accept Governor Taft's proposition relative to the Philippines. Governor Taft is one of the most able of the government's many smart men, and is almost a Kentuckian, coming from Cincinnati.

Only four of the good people who own cows are shown on the assessors' books. Where are all the others? Are they too bashful to come forward and give in their property so they can pay their just taxes?

Now that the board of aldermen has said the cow can run loose so the poor man can save half of his grocery bill, it should go ahead and complete its magnanimity by paying the other half.

THE CORNER STONE

Impressive Services in Little's Addition Yesterday Afternoon.

Several Ministers Participated—The Names of Building Committee.

Very interesting was the ceremony of the laying of the corner stone of "Little's Chapel," as the Methodist church in Little's addition will be called, on yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Revs. H. B. Johnston, T. J. Owea, and G. W. Banks, and were most impressive. Quite a large crowd witnessed the ceremony. In the corner stone were deposited a copy of the Christian Advocate published in Nashville, Tenn., the official organ of the M. E. church South, a Methodist Discipline and Bible. Seventy dollars was taken up in subscriptions at the service.

Little's Chapel will be ready for service about August 1. It will be a nice and comfortable building 28x40, and 14 feet high, with a recess back of pulpit. Rev. T. J. Owea is the preacher in charge. Rev. H. B. Johnston is the presiding elder, and Bishop E. E. Hoss is the bishop in charge.

The trustees are Messrs. J. W. Little, C. R. Hall and H. W. Katterjohn. The building committee who have so successfully engineered the building of the chapel are J. W. Little, chairman, Sam T. Hubbard, secretary, and Dr. B. B. Griffith, treasurer. This is the only church in Little's addition and has been desired for some time. Much credit for it is due to Mr. J. W. Little who donated the ground, to the Rev. "Cap" Owen, and to Rev. H. B. Johnston, the thorough-going and capable presiding elder of the Paducah district. The best way to build up a city is to have churches in every corner of it, and the good work is always to be commended.

PALMA DENIES

PRESIDENT OF CUBA TAKES ISSUE WITH MR. BRYAN.

New York, June 20—William Jennings Bryan's expressed belief that dangerous discussions exist among the political parties in Cuba, and his predictions of civil war in the island, is making no end of trouble for the Cuban president.

That Senor Palma is personally anxious to dissipate the possible doubt concerning the stability of the present Cuban government, implanted in the American mind by Mr. Bryan's statement, and to convey assurances that there is no probability of internecine war in Cuba is shown in the following cable dispatch which the president has sent to Collier's Weekly, the paper in which Mr. Bryan's views were printed.

The following is Senor Palma's message:

"I understand that William Jennings Bryan has made statements in Collier's Weekly indicating his belief that there are not only dissensions among the political parties here in Cuba but that a certain faction evinces a revolutionary spirit which is bound to lead to civil war in our new republic. If Mr. Bryan really thought he heard the distant roll of revolutionary drums and a whispered call to arms in this island when he was here, then the people of Cuba, all of us, have cotton in our ears.

"I have received no notices of disturbances or of anything except utmost harmony among all elements.

"Certainly, however, our economical situation is extremely bad. I am aware of a great crying demand throughout the island among the poorer people for work. At the same time I have every evidence of the people's patience under great suffering and am conscious of their confidence in the future and of their determination to assist my administration through this exceedingly difficult period.

COFFEE SENSE.

TO DRINK OR NOT TO DRINK, THE QUESTION.

A prominent St. Paul woman comments on coffee as follows:

"While I was drinking coffee I was troubled with sleeplessness and palpitation of the heart. I began to feel suspicious of coffee poison, and having no desire to drug myself, realized how inconsistent it was for me to continue the use of anything that helped to break me down, so I quit coffee and began using Postum coffee.

"Now I sleep well and consequently feel refreshed, and am much strengthened. Palpitation of the heart has ceased, and altogether life seems worth living.

"Some of our family like a little coffee mixed in with the Postum; that, of course, is much healthier than the old fashioned coffee alone."

It is true that very strong coffee of the best flavor has a little more fascinating taste to some palates than pure Postum. On the other hand, there are thousands of people that prefer the flavor of Postum, pure and simple. If coffee agrees perfectly, and people are not ill in any way, there seems no good reason why coffee should be discontinued, unless there is a fear of disease finally setting up from the continued use of a drug. On the other hand, if any member of a family is ailing in stomach, bowels, kidneys, eyes or the nervous system, such a one should immediately quit ordinary coffee and take Postum Food Coffee. A sure result can be depended upon and a gradual feeling of health and strength will come from the change. Health, of course, is worth almost everything on earth.

Some people are so constituted that it is hard for them to give up a habit, even if good health is the reward, but it is perfectly easy to leave off coffee, when one can have a well boiled cup of Postum in its place.

WITH THE THEATRES.

"The Strangers of Paris" was given at The Kentucky last night to an appreciative crowd, and is one of the best things yet put on by the English Stock company. The members are well cast, and the play is interesting from start to finish. The characters are well given, and the settings are fine. The specialties, also, gave great satisfaction, and the audience was delighted. Tonight the bill will be repeated, and a large crowd is expected to attend. The Kentucky is the most popular place in the city, and a first class entertainment is assured.

The comedy "A Practical Joke" which was presented by the stock company at the La Belle park theatre last night drew forth an unlimited amount of enthusiastic applause, the play being well handled by the company. The stage setting was handsome and the dresses elegant and every character was finely delineated. The specialties and incidental music were excellent. This bill is the attraction again tonight, also at the Saturday matinee and will receive its last presentation Saturday night. Tonight is "amateur" night and the following array is expected to appear after the regular performance: Miss Irene Caldwell, fancy skirt dancer; Miss Beanie Stone, cornetist; Frank Harley, "boy baritone," and Frank Moss in rope and lariat feats.

Rheumatism

The liniment bottle and flannel strip are familiar objects in nearly every household. They are the weapons that have been used for generations to fight old Rheumatism, and are about as effective in the battle with this giant disease as the blunderbuss of our forefathers would be in modern warfare.

Rheumatism is caused by an acid, sour condition of the blood. It is filled with acid, irritating matter that settles in the joints, muscles and nerves, and liniments and oils or nothing else applied externally can dislodge these gritty, corroding particles. They were deposited there by the blood and can be reached only through the blood. Rubbing with liniments sometimes relieve temporarily the aches and pains, but these are only symptoms which are liable to return with every change of the weather; the real disease lies deeper, the blood and system are infected. Rheumatism cannot be radically and permanently cured until the blood has been purified, and no remedy does this so thoroughly and promptly as S. S. S. It neutralizes the acids and sends a stream of rich, strong blood to the affected parts, which dissolves and washes out all foreign materials, and the sufferer obtains happy relief from the torturing pains.

SSS

S. S. S. contains no potash or other mineral, but is a perfect vegetable blood purifier, and most exhilarating tonic. Our physicians will advise, without charge, all who write about their case, and we will send free our special book on Rheumatism and its treatment.

SAENGERFEST AT CALUMET.

Calumet, Mich., June 20—Calumet is in holiday attire for the fourth annual Saengerfest of the Upper Peninsula Saengerbund, which began today and continues through tomorrow. The visitors including representatives of all the German singing societies of Upper Michigan, began arriving last evening and by noon today the city was thronged. The decorations at the hall, where the meetings and concerts are being held, present a beautiful and attractive appearance to the eye of every beholder. The national colors of Germany and the United States are blended harmoniously in all the decorations. The program provides for half a dozen concerts in which several hundred vocalists will participate under the direction of Herman Brohn. The visitors are being royally entertained by the members of the Calumet Maennerchor, which organization is acting as host for the occasion.

GOOD CROP PROSPECTS.

St. Paul, Minn., June 20—Reports of crops of all kinds that have been coming in from sources during the present week never have been more favorable at this time of year. Every part of the northwest, except the wet region in the Red River Valley, where seedling was delayed, is showing in the bright prospects. The outlook in Southern and Southwestern Minnesota is exceptionally bright. Reports from every place on the line of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad show a prospect that could hardly be improved upon. Corn, of which there is an increased acreage, is growing fast. Many points also report an exceptionally good prospect for a heavy hay and potato crop.

SOCIETY OF THE WAR OF 1812.

Boston, Mass., June 20—The General Society of the War of 1812 began its annual meeting in Boston today with delegates present from Illinois, Ohio, New York, New Jersey, the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Massachusetts and Connecticut. The gathering was called to order by the president general, John Caldwell of Philadelphia, and the opening prayer was by Bishop Coleman of Delaware, chaplain-general of the society. The sessions are to continue through tomorrow, the business meetings being interspersed with short trips to places of historic interest in and about Boston.

FOR WESTERN DEVELOPMENT.

Galveston, Texas, June 20—Representatives from the Northwest and west as well as from Texas, Louisiana and other states and territories of the southwest are attending the convention of Southern Pacific land and immigration agents, which began in this city today. The meeting continues three days, during which time ways and means for promoting western immigration and aiding in the development of the trans-Mississippi country generally will be exhaustively discussed.

TO BREAK STANDING

JUMP RECORD.

New York, June 20—A feature of the games to be held at Cetto park tomorrow by the Knights of Columbus will be the ten standing jumps scratch. The best man entered and the one looked on by students of form to win this event is Ray C. Ewry, of the New York Athletic club, the greatest standing jumper the world has ever seen. The event was put on the program practically to give Ewry a chance to beat the present world's record of 11 feet 5 1/2 inches.

ECONOMY OF HAVING

TRUST COMPANIES ACT AS EXECUTOR.

A trust company receives exactly the same commission as an individual when it serves as an executor or administrator, yet it brings to the management of an estate the combined experience of several men of great ability in finance and management, instead of that of a single individual.

A trust company, being a permanent institution, there is no danger from deaths like there is in the management by an individual. A trust company, also, has its own strong vaults, burglar and fire proof, and offers every protection from fires and other dangers.

A trust company is in the position to secure better investments than a private individual, as this comes in its line of business, and it can usually find such investments quicker than an individual could. A trust company for the same reason is in a better position to dispose of any property it should be advisable to do so.

The Globe Bank and Trust Co., besides doing a trust company business, does a general banking business and pays interest on time deposits. Office 306 Broadway.

Parramore's Burglars

By WILFRED MORRIS.

"It's as dark as a wolf's mouth! Why will Craggs put up those accursed shutters? The street might be threatened with a nightly sledge. There, my last match gone, too!"

Grumbling indignantly to himself, Richard Parramore, junior partner in the firm of Parramore & Sons, lawyers, stalked in at the glass paneled door which led directly from an unlighted passage to his private room in an old-fashioned suite of legal offices. He paused to thrust into a vest pocket the empty receptacle which had provoked his concluding observations, then groped towards an adjoining mantelpiece, hoping to discover thereon a box of the despised but often priceless standstillers.

The entrance by which he had come closed behind him, thanks to a pneumatic "buffer," noiselessly; his own footsteps had been deadened by the substantial, if faded, Brussels, that covered the floor of the apartment.

His search for the possible rather than probable matchbox proving ineffective, the young solicitor moved in the direction of the silent general office without. He found his way instinctively—the gloom was unrelieved by the faintest glimmer from the shuttered windows anathematized by the lawyer.

He drew open the door into the further apartment with a jerk, and halted, amazed. It was not empty, nor unlightedly dark. A small kerosene lantern threw a steady radiance upon a patch of worn matting, strewn with packets and envelopes of various sizes and more or less legal appearance. By them were crouched two figures—a man's and a woman's, one cloaked and veiled, the other muffled to the ears. The latter was in the act of slipping up a footstep envelope which shone white in her gloved hands. It had evidently been withdrawn, with the remainder of those littering the floor near the public entrance of the office, from a gaping and shattered letter-box attached thereto.

The noise made by the opening door aroused the two from their absorption, and one of the figures sprang up. It was the man—a square, yet haddled and ungainly form—and he leaped something, something vague but threatening.

"Stand where ye are, if ye don't want yer lay down fur de last time in yer life!"

The woman moved up close to the man and whispered something in his ear, but he shook his head.

"Here, gent, hand over the key," he commanded of Parramore. "Then we'll just ask ye to step inside yer own little iron box here."

With apparent reluctance the lawyer extracted a bunch of keys from his pocket and tossed them over.

"Whiz de door open," instructed the crackman, turning to the girl and motioning to the steel vault. "It's time we're out o' dis."

Falteringly, the girl—for she was but little more—unfastened and dragged wide the clumsy steel panel in a corner of the office. It revealed an empty, metal-lined compartment, stacked with documents.

"In wid ye," commanded the leader of the odd couple who had so suddenly become Parramore's captors. The lawyer advanced, guarded vigilantly by the man, Parramore lingered bristlingly on the threshold of the strong room.

"Hurry, hurry!" remarked his custodian, sharply, waving threateningly the extended arm and gleaming barrel that had been so persistently menacing the lawyer.

For answer Parramore dropped to his knees and rolled over. His body met the feet and ankles of the man, pitching him forward into the yawning strongroom. The lawyer leaped up, jammed to the iron door, and locked it; the man was a prisoner.

Then Parramore turned to that discomfited person's veiled and cloaked companion. She had shrunk back into the shadows—the lantern she held trembling suggestively.

"Now," said the lawyer, sternly, "give me that light, woman, or it will be worse for you. Yet I would rather not use violence unless you drive me to it."

The lantern was set down precipitately. Parramore strode to it, snatched it up, and turned its rays on the mysterious crackwoman. She hid her face hastily. Yet something in her bearing and in the little young shape that moved so obviously under her disguising garment made the lawyer start. She was retreating from him. At once alarmed and bristled, Parramore pursued her, but she escaped him—she was tearing something under her cloak, tearing it desperately, violently.

The lawyer placed the lantern on the mantel, darted after her, and seized her in a ruthless grasp. The shoulders he had laid hold upon were soft and rounded. A cry broke from behind the thick chenille veil: "O, Dick, Dick, you hurt me!"

At the sound of the broken words, the fearful, girlish voice, the lawyer trembled, recoiled, staggered paralyzed by incredulity. "Margie!" he gasped, "what—what nightmarish is this?"

With a petulant gesture the girl raised a small hand and put up her veil. The face exposed was flushed and youthful, a pair of blue eyes shone in the rays of the lantern, and two red lips pouted under delicate nostrils.

"O, Richard Parramore was told with a stamp; 'how you have spoiled everything. There, go and let poor Tom out of that horrid den, and we will go home. I'm sick to death of—of practical joking.'"

The lawyer frowned and lifted the lantern to a gas jet, flooded the apartment with light. "Miss Unless," he said, severely, though his brown pupils twinkled, "this is no practical joke. You did not know that I would be here to-night. I did not know it myself. Look at that lock removed, survey that rifled letter-box; they would get both you and Tom 12 months, or from that to 14 years, for burglary."

Margaret—otherwise Margie—sat down suddenly and wept. "I—I think you're very cruel," she sobbed, "and Tom didn't want to do it, only I—I persuaded him it was for your happiness."

The young lawyer stooped over the dejected figure. "Margie, dear," he said, gently, "I—I was merely chaffing. Don't cry, dearest; what was the trouble—something you had written and repeated of? I would not have read it if you had forbidden me by, say, a telegram or an express letter. But why go in for heroics and run all sorts of risks?"

"It—it's worse than—that that," stammered Margie; "it—it was some letters I had written to some one else—to—Mr. Prout."

Richard Parramore's countenance darkened. "Prout!" he said, "not Hamilton Prout, the actor!"

Margie nodded miserably. "They were only silly, spoony letters," she murmured, "but I hated the idea of your reading them. I—I thought I cared for him—before I met you. And I had been begging him for them back ever so long, and he—he wouldn't give them to me. And today I saw him by appointment, to get them, I understand. But he—he—"

"Her lover waited patiently. 'He showed me them,' burst out Margie, in an envelope addressed to you, with a note asking your professional advice about bringing an action against me—for breach of promise. And he—he mailed it under my very eyes."

"So I knew," faltered Margie, "that they would reach him by the last delivery—I hoped, after you had gone. And Tom agreed to help me to get them before you could see them. We had managed so nicely when you came—we had crept down just about the time for closing the hall door upstairs, and when all was quiet Tom had put a piece out of the glass panel there, with a diamond and unscrewed the lock. Once we were inside, breaking open the letter-box was easy. If you could have stopped away another half hour. As it was, Tom put you off with his talk, and I did for one moment believe we'd got you in the strong room. Then we could have slipped off and you need never have known. But now, if you like, you can pierce the bits together again and read them every one."

With which incoherent ultimatum Margie laid on the table a heap of torn fragments. The lawyer swept them into his palm, tossed them into the fire grate, and put a light to them.

"You foolish child!" was all he said. But he bent and kissed her, and somehow the kiss took a singularly long while to negotiate.

"I wonder," observed Parramore, at length. "If Tom really has enough air. We may as well make sure."

He suited the action to the word, and there stalked forth from the strongroom an extremely cool and self-possessioned youth—like his sister in the full light—with a raven-black, hoarse face, an incongruous plaid neckerchief, a traveling cap, and an ill-fitting, obviously borrowed, overcoat. He considered the situation cheerfully.

"Smart trick that of yours, Parramore!" he said, assuming a patronizing air; "well, I suppose you know all. Going to throw Margie over?"

"No, you young dog," answered the lawyer; "going to see the pair of you home in a cab."

Tom Unless put his hands in his pockets. "Very well," he commented; "make a piece of a row and blame it on me. I shall any I found Margie and you sleeping and brought you back—by force! But you had much better let an sneak in as we sneaked out."

The lawyer put a little glow

Here are a few "hulls" that have been perpetrated from time to time in the Austro-Hungarian parliament: "One most important point of the agricultural question is the maintenance of the breeds of horses to which I have the honor to belong."

"We are here for the weal and woe of our constituents."

"Gentlemen, consider this question in the light of a dark future."

"The eye of the law weighs heavily on our press legislation."

"There, gentlemen, is the ever-changing point of which the opposition has made a hobby horse."

"This taunt is the same old sea serpent which, for years and years, has been gnawing in this assembly."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Quier Henr.

Lord, I have shut my door!—Shut out life's busy care and fretting noise—Here in the silence they intrude no more. Speak, Thou, and Heavenly joys Shall fill my heart with music sweet and calm, A holy psalm.

Lord, I have shut my door!—Come Thou, and visit me, I am alone. Come, as when doors were shut Thou cam'st of yore And visitodst Thine own. My Lord, I kneel in rapt love and fear. For Thou art here. —Boston Watchman.

A BIG COURT

A Bardwell Quartet Arrested and Fined.

A Number of Continuances Granted by Judge Sanders This Morning.

There was an unusually large docket in police court this morning, and Judge Sanders was kept busy most of the forenoon.

Ed Warden and Mrs. Trice, and Byrd Young and Ida Kilgore, of Bardwell, were arrested last night at Hannah Dounnoy's, on South Second street, on a charge of immorality, and all fined $20 and costs this morning.
The Trice woman's husband was in the city on business and did not know his wife was here. When he learned of it this morning he took his horse out of the stable and started back home, refusing to talk to her over the telephone.

J. C. Hinton and Mrs. McCann were charged with disorderly conduct by being on the street late. The case was left open.

A case of petty larceny against Henry Boaz, colored, charged with stealing iron from the railroad, was dismissed.

An immorality charge against Harry Miller and Nellie Hamilton was dismissed, and a case against Finn Hamilton for a breach of the peace was

Robert Banks and Charles Harris, colored, who engaged in a fight on lower Court street Sunday, were held in the sum of $150 each, one for mayhem and the other for malicious assault.

Hannah Dounnoy was charged with running a disorderly house, and was fined $40 and costs. A similar charge against Lonise, her daughter, was dismissed.

A breach of ordinance case against Will Connor was left open. He ran away from the chain gang yesterday, while serving a fine in the lockup for a breach of the peace.

Bob Caldwell, colored, was fined $10 and costs for being drunk and disorderly.

James A. Milani, mayor of Dog-town, was fined $1 and costs for a breach of the peace.

The gauling case against Alex. Yel-tina was continued until Friday.

LOOKING FOR A TUG.

EVANSVILLE MEN DESIRE ONE TO USE IN MINING.

Captain John Archbold and Captain Berk Hornbrook of Evansville are in the city today looking for a small tug or steamboat to use in the coal mining business. The former is at the head of the John Archbold Coal company, and recently sold the I. C. the tugboat Lizzie B. Archbold. So far the gentlemen were unable to secure any desirable boat, but will probably look around several days longer and find one to their liking.

Captain Archbold has purchased much of the wreckage from the Pittsburg, and will use it in his mining business. He has purchased a pump and other apparatus, which has been taken to the mines near Green River and Newburg.

Miss Mary Berry returned home today at noon to Morgansfield after a visit to relatives.
